

Assessing Financial and Legal Capability

Legal and Financial Capability – both provide a framework for understanding what an individual needs to do to manage money or exercise rights and responsibilities.

Evaluating Legal Capability

Four domains for understanding what an individual needs to be able to exercise rights and responsibilities:

- recognising and framing the legal dimensions of issues and situations
- finding out more about the legal dimensions of issues and situations
- dealing with law-related issues
- engaging and influencing
- Download Public Legal Education Evaluation Framework (Law for Life): <http://bit.ly/HbqNnr>

Evaluating Financial Capability

The three components of the Financial Capability Framework:

- financial knowledge and understanding
- financial skills and competence
- financial responsibility

Download Financial Capability Framework (Money Advice Service): <http://bit.ly/16krhDs>